

POBLACHT NA H EIREANN

ON MARCH 15TH 2016 WE, THE COMMUNITY OF ST. PAUL'S, STAND WITH THE PEOPLE OF IRELAND AS A FREE AND INDEPENDENT NATION CELEBRATING THE 100 YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF THE RISING.

We should stand proud because of all that we have achieved since gaining independence. It is now our turn to continue the brave works of others and ensure we create a better Ireland for future generations in the hope that they will live a prosperous life.

In Ireland we should have happiness, love and peace. In St. Paul's that means we should always have Kind Hands, Kind Words, Kind Feet.

We should find a way for more employment throughout the country so that everyone can afford to live and feed their families. The government should bring in policies to prevent or reduce homelessness and poverty. All the people in Ireland should have a nice home, healthy food and clean water.

The people of Ireland should get medicine if they are sick. All children should have equal access to education in a safe and happy place.

Every person deserves to be treated equally regardless of their race, gender, age, disability or religion. Everybody should be able to believe in their own God. We think that people should be able to marry who they want. We should always be kind and have respect for everyone. We want to live in a country where everyone is treated the same.

It is the responsibility of every Irish person to be proud of the traditions and cultures of our country. Our language and culture is what makes us unique among the nations of the world. We should encourage our citizens to speak our national language (Gaeilge), to play our traditional instruments and to thrive in our national sports.

Every person in Ireland should care for their environment. We must reduce our pollution and waste in order to ensure we leave Ratoath, and the rest of Ireland, a better place for future generations.

In 2016 we think that each person living in Ireland should have the right to live in peace without war or violence. Today we are not calling others to fight with weapons for their rights but all the people of Ireland should instead work as a team and co-operate so that Ireland is a great place in which to live. An Ireland of hope, love and prosperity; An island of safety and peace; A united people that remember the past; A healthy and happy country; A country of educated, knowledgeable and equal citizens that embrace change.

* Make this the greatest Ireland there ever was, for the next generation. For everyone!
